"Pretty good, pretty good," his father said. "Keep practicing." And he went on. He was not sure what he ought to have said. He did not want to encourage the boy to spend any more time on music, or with this girl; he spent too much already, and neither of them would help him get anywhere in life. But this gift, this undeniable gift of the rock hovering, the unblown life -- Well, it would be wrong to make too much of it, but probably it should not be discouraged. of his wits with the dull life at Westpool, and was never slow to take a risk. He rode up the hill. "Is this some kind of custom?" Of the four of them, only the Doorkeeper moved and spoke. He took a step forward, looking from one young man to the next and the next. He said, "You trusted me, giving me your names. Will you trust me now?" Gelluk was standing still, but his shaking hands were clenched, his whole tall body twitching and. prentice to the Isle of the Wise, and soon enough they found a heavy trader bound for Wathort, "I haven't practiced ever since I left, Darkrose," he said. "But the music was always in my head, and you...." She reached out her hands to him. They knelt facing, the willow-leaves moving across their hair. They kissed each other, timidly at first. They walked a half-mile or so. The Knoll rose up full in the western sun on their right. Behind them the School sprawled grey and many-roofed on its lower hill. The grove of trees towered before them now. She saw oak and willow, chestnut and ash, and tall evergreens. From the dense, sun-shot darkness of the trees a stream ran out, green-banked, with many brown trodden places where cattle and sheep went down to drink or to cross over. They had come through the stile from a pasture where fifty or sixty sheep grazed the short, bright turf, and now stood near the stream. That house," said the mage, pointing to a low, moss-ridden roof half-hidden by the afternoon shadows of the trees. "Stay tonight. You will?". Grove alone, as she had always done. But in these years of the building of the House and the year's leaf by her hand. They set off along the wharves, asking for a ship bound south that might take a wizard and his. The school was founded in about 650, as described above. The Nine Masters or master-teachers of enlightening mageries and charms, all the lore and rules of Roke, all the wisdom of the books.
